DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Newly submitted claims directed to an invention that is independent or distinct from the invention originally claimed for the following reasons: The claimed article can be manufactured by compression molding, which is materially different from the injection molding specified in claim 15, which is the only independent claim added.

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented invention, this invention has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, claims 15-23 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Walling et al. 3,027,352, Walker 3,235,531, Kakos, Jr. 3,484,399, Wolters et al. 3,743,614 or Collet et al. 4,772,662.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 2/25/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Whether the cited references show the same testing procedures applicants' specification is completely irrelevant. Whether they are even aware of formaldehyde emissions, or not, is completely beside the point. The fact that they do not enumerate the same mechanical properties as applicants is altogether immaterial. The only thing, which is relevant, is that they all show a copolymer having the oxymethylene/oxyethylene ratio range claimed by applicant and any polyacetal copolymer having the same composition would inherently have the same mechanical properties and the same amount of formaldehyde emission. If applicants can prove that the cited references do not possess these properties, then the examiner will give weight to their arguments. Applicants' arguments are directed to the method of reducing formaldehyde emissions, while the claim is directed to the process of manufacturing shaped articles. The rejection is maintained.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
